

Persuasion Text Homework

Many people think that children should not have homework after school, but I think that they should.

My first reason is that school is very busy and some children concentrate more when they are settled at home.

My second reason is that homework is a way for children to practice their work at home where parents can see how they doing.

I also think that there is so much to do at school, that children do not get enough time to practice basic skills such as addition and subtraction.

Also, children at home, who are bored might spend their time on the streets and getting into trouble.

Finally, I think that TV has created a lot of bad habits for families and children. Doing homework is an important way of giving children something useful to do at home.
