

2. Angad Dev (1504—1552)

Guru Angad Dev started recording Sikh beliefs in a way that was easy to read. This way, they could be read by everybody.

He also started a kitchen in the Sikh place of worship (or gurdwara). Poor people can get free food from these kitchens.

He worked very hard, doing all kinds of work for other people.

He is best known for his obedience.